

PROGRESS IN WELLNESS

pt.1

Two cavemen met for the first time:

One killed the other because of fear.

Two Vikings met for the first time:

One dismembered the other to show his superior strength.

Two travelers met for the first time in the city:

One beat and robbed the other to have greater wealth.

Two noblemen met for the first time at a public meeting:

One assassinated the other character in hope of winning the upcoming election for himself.

Two peace makers met at a demonstration:

One was a greater braggart than the other and won the attention of the audience.

Then

Two strangers met and saw the need for healthy thinking:
Without gossip or justification they initiated an expedition to help others.

On their journey they:
Judged no one's conduct, offered no opinions and gave no advice.

Why?
